NEW HORIZON TIMES

A MONTHLY NEWSPAPER FOR THE STUDENTS AND BY THE STUDENTS

Bangalore, July 2018

CMM/BHE/DECL/NPP - 230 / 10 / 2033

New Horizon Public School, a leading pioneer in many innovative educational strategies is proud of our ancient culture. Hence to commemorate what our Gurus' have been practicing since ancient times, we celebrate International Yoga Day every year on the 21st of June, 2018.

This year's Yoga Day was held on a grand scale and it was graced by the Honourable, Shri Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala, Governor of the State of Karnataka. Also present were former Indian Cricketer, Sri Venkatesh Prasad and Chairman, NHEI, Dr. Mohan Manghnani.

Since 2015, 21st of June has been celebrated all over the world as the International Yoga Day. Yoga is a group of physical, mental and spiritual practices which originated in Ancient India. There are different forms of Yoga which includes various physical postures, breathing techniques and meditation. This year too our school celebrated this occasion and it was a very proud moment as our Honourable Governor of Karnataka, Shri Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala as well as the former cricketer, Mr. Venkatesh Prasad joined us during this event.

The high school students (students of class 7 to 10) gathered for this event in the school quadrangle to celebrate this occasion. The principal graciously welcomed our guests. This was followed by an inspiring speech by Mr. Venkatesh Prasad on the importance of physical fitness and its role in shaping our overall personalities. After Mr. Prasad, our Honourable Governor of Karnataka, addressed the gathering and highlighted the significance of the International Yoga Day.

This was followed by a guided session on various Yoga asanas and meditation by instructors from the Art of Living foundation. Some of the Asanas that we performed were padmasan, vajrasan, setu bandh asan, trikonasan, pranayama and more. Everybody present at the gathering - the chief guests, our chairman, the faculty members and the students actively participated in this session.

At the end of the session we felt energised and rejuvenated. We also felt a sense of pride that the ancient Indian tradition of Yoga and meditation is now celebrated all over the world as the International Yoga Day. Prateek M

Look who's sailing into Pre-Primary ! June 2018

Holidays have come to an end. It is that time of the year when the day starts with getting ready for a school schedule.

School is a child's second home; a home that they love coming to. This was evident in the happy faces of children that greeted the teachers on the re-opening day for Lkg and Ukg. Happy in the knowledge and excited in the fact that they are now a class older, it was a troop of confident children walking into school that day. For our Nursery babies, however, it was a different story altogether. A little doubt, a little apprehension, a little anxiousness and a whole lot of fear were the feelings that our Nursery little ones were experiencing on their first day at school. Nothing unusual of course, when faced with a new environment coupled with new faces all around them. Two weeks later and these children will be walking and some even running to the school gates every morning.. such is the aura of Pre-Primary.

A RAINY NIGHT OF TRAVEL

It was raining in the streets of Liverpool, which wasn't unusual. Dylan walked out of the Tube station, humming to Green Day, not giving a care in the world about the orphanage that he had just walked away from, thinking about the next lyric and how to sing it without getting heard. That wasn't much of a problem, since the Tube was disorganized as usual, and nobody would hear him unless he shouted. He walked out of the complex. The rain hit him and it hurt, but he kept his leisurely pace, trying to avoid slipping on the roads. Suddenly, he heard a noise. It sounded like an engine revving. He thought he heard people talking, but that couldn't be. It was an abandoned street, an old hangout from the days leading to the orphanage. He followed the noise. He rounded a corner, to see a bunch of people getting into something that looked like the pill you take when you have a headache, only a lot bigger. It was made of chrome, by the looks of it and the people were standing in a line to get in. The funny thing was, nobody noticed him. He waved and asked them questions, looking at their blank faces staring back at him. So, he joined the line. It seemed to be reeling him in like an invisible force. He waited. The songs changed. Pink Floyd, to the Rolling Stones, to The Beatles played continuously, on his iPod, a gift from his father, before he disappeared. He got his liking to soft rock from him, and he was someone he didn't think of much. He finally reached the end of the line. He walked into the capsule to find it look suspiciously like an elevator. There were furnished walls, a lot of people, and cheesy music playing. They finally reached their destination. He walked out, to be hit by a wave of excitement. This was a utopia, a sanctuary of all that is good in this world, like the movie Noah's Ark. He saw large, see through buildings filled with all kinds of endangered animals. He swore he even saw a dodo waddling around in there. He looked around, he saw a train that was just about to leave. So, he ran like he never ran before, grinning as his earplugs flew around him. He barely made it into the train in time. He must have looked like a fool, smiling like that, but the truth was, he needed this. With the same, drab routine, that every kid went through, he needed a little change and this was it. He stood by the Plexiglas window, looking out at the beautiful place.

He saw abundance everywhere, and no sign of an orphanage, which was good. That meant no child was without a parent. Nobody should go through what he went through, moving from foster home to foster home, never having a place to call home. Besides, he hated the pity the others gave him. He sat, listening to the guitar riffs of famous rock bands, looking out at the scenery, never turning his back away from the window even though it hurt his neck. The train took a full round of the place, back to the place they started. He sat for another round, surprised that nobody asked him to pay. He finally got out, amazed by the things he saw. But he knew he had to go back to the real world. He resisted the temptation to stay and approached the capsule, got into it quickly, because nobody seemed to leave. He returned to the rainy streets of Liverpool, towards the station, thinking about that place and continued the long walk back to the orphanage he called home.

MANASA'S TRAVEL TALES MY FIRST HIMALAYAN TREK

It was the month of March and there was a frenzy planning for the summer vacation in an enjoyable and yet meaningful way. We decided to join a group of friends for a trek to Pangarchulla peak in the Himalayas which is in the state of Uttarakhand, at an altitude of around 14700 feet, less touched by trekkers and mostly snow covered. For me, this was my first trek to the Himalayas and I was excited about it. The next two months were spent building physical stamina to endure the strenuous climb from 6000 feet to 14700 feet and back a total of around 35 Kms over 4 days.

On 22nd April, we boarded a van from Rishikesh and reached Joshimath after a 10 hour drive and straight hit the bed. Next morning we started our trek from Dhak to Khullara, initially through villages and then later through dense forests. We had to gain 3500 feet the same day, around 8 Kms. After 4 hours of climbing uphill, we took a break for lunch. The simple meal of pulav felt like a feast and we gobbled it up in no time. The trek commenced again through the jungles, completely uphill and quite tiring. After a total 8 hours of walking up the mountain, we were delighted to see our blue tents from a distance. It was a relief to finally reach our destination for the day. Refreshing cups of black tea and garlic soup brought back energy in us to enjoy the snowfall that had just started. From our camp we could see snow clad peaks of Dronagiri, Hathi Ghoda and more. As night set in, the peaks shone in the reflection of the moon, and the billion stars captivated us. We snuggled into our sleeping bags inside our tents and tried to sleep in the shivering cold.

The golden sun woke us up early next day and after a refreshing breakfast we started our trek to Kuari pass which is around 12,000 feet in altitude. We were instructed to keep our body well hydrated to avoid altitude sickness. The trek today was even more difficult through big boulders and rocks, slippery ice and snow. What kept us going was the beautiful green meadows, the snowy mountains and the amazing scenery of various peaks and the encouragement not to give up. This prepared us for the most difficult and exciting trek for the next day: Pangarchulla peak.

We left at 1:30AM (yes, middle of the night as we call it) for the Pangarchulla peak to ensure that we reach the peak before the sun melts the snow as it would become slippery. Geared up in spikes for our climb it was a 15 hours walk that day to the peak and then to our camp at Tali forest. Initially through boulders, then through meadows, then through hip deep snow we slowly moved closer to the peak. Only three of them could manage to do the summit. Tired and exhausted, we reached our camp in Tali. The last day was our final trek from Tali back to Joshimath. We went up the Tali top, walked through the beautiful and yet tough Lord Curzon trail, and then through unforgettable Garson meadows to reach our destination after eight hours. I would call this trek a lifetime experience as it made me aware that our power is limitless. It taught me to push myself beyond my limits and to survive with a smile in tough environments. I am all set to do my next trek in October and would like to continue my Himalayan treks for lifetime.

MY JR. NBA JOURNEY

The Jr. NBA Bangalore finale was held at New Horizon Public School Bangalore on 25 February 2018. Based on the performance of players, ALL STAR TEAM (10 each from Boys and Girls) were selected from various schools and I am proud to be one among the 10 Boys from Bangalore in the U-14 category.

This was no doubt a result of our Coach Mr. ANTONY VU and his splendid training. Before our trip, we had to attend the 11 days training camp at NHCG, in order to improve our skills in various categories. There we were coached by Mr. Prasanna, Coach of NHCE who was going to be our coach for the games as well. He was a good Coach and we found our skills improving day by day.

We left Bangalore at about 6:00 am to Greater Noida NBA Academy where the all India Jr. NBA National Championship was being held. Our team consisted of ten boys and ten girls respectively.

On reaching Noida, we enjoyed a day of rest at the Jaypee Greens, a well known sports centre which was once visited by the two time MVP and the reigning finalist of NBA MVP, KEVIN DURENT who plays the small forward position for the NBA team Golden State Warriors. We knew we were going to have tough competition and played three games against Chennai, Delhi and Kolkata. In the whole tournament, I managed to score a total of 24 points, however, we failed to qualify for the World Championship that was going to be held at Orlando, Florida.

On the eve of the finals, we also managed to receive autographs from BROOK LOPEZ, the LA LAKERS Center and AMOJYOT SINGH, the Star of the Indian Basketball team. The Bangalore Girls and the Delhi Boys, managed to qualify for the World Championship which is being held at Orlando, Florida in August 2018. Our team was obviously quite disappointed that we didn't qualify but were still satisfied with how we had played. I am thankful to Antony Sir, my Coach for providing me with excellent training and for supporting me all the way without whom I would never have dreamed of getting such an opportunity.

MY TRIP TO GOA

During my vacation, I went to Goa which is an awesome place to visit. The city is clean and tidy. We stayed in a beach resort. Goa is known for its beaches. Calangunte, Baga, Anjuna are some of the beaches. There are many churches to visit. The most important and internationally renowned one is the Basilica of Bom Jesus. The relics of Saint Francis Xavier, who had died in 1554-1564 CE is preserved. There is an arch, erected at the place where Vasco Da Gama entered India. Several boat cruises are offered as well as games such as parasailing, banana ride and skiing. We went for a boat trip which took us around the shores of Goa. It was an excellent trip where we had a beautiful view of Aguadafort, along with its jail and lighthouse. We were fortunate to sight dolphins in the sea. Goa is a very interesting place for shopping. There are nice shops with a variety of items. Tattoo shops were seen all around Goa, where beautiful tattoos were displayed. It was my most memorable adventure ever. No one should miss a visit to Goa.

New Horizon Pre-University FRESHERS DAY – BATCH 2018-19

The fiesta organized in New Horizon Pre-University College Auditorium on Saturday, June 9 2018, manifested the youth and their enthusiasm at its full flow, by hosting a grand Fresher's Day for the new comers.

The second year's welcomed the freshers by providing them the hospitality and filling the magic of unity and ecstasy.

The Freshers were dressed in shades of Red & White and the Second Year's in shades of Blue.

The program began in a sporty mood, with two friendly tournaments – Boys Basketball Match and Girls Throw Ball match between the Freshers and the Second Years.

The Director Ms. Kirthi Manghnani felicitated the players with medals. The fresher's enthusiasm and perseverance took both the matches to their victory. After the match we moved on to the second program. The formal program commenced in an auspicious way with the lamp lighting ceremony by the Director Ms. Kirthi Manghnani, students, teachers and non-teaching fraternity. This spread the light of truth, knowledge, success and divine grace.

After the inauguration, the program started with the entry of the hosts taking forth the Cultural extravaganza breaking the ice between the seniors and juniors. The ambience and aura was filled with excitement and joy. The second year's had presented a variety of dances from Classical to Western to Hip-hop. The Musical Group had brought in a melodious touch to the show. A wonderful opportunity and a perfect platform was laid for the freshers to showcase their talents and their skills. A team of teachers judged the Talent Hunt round. The participants had put forth their best, showcasing their stunning performances. Finally it was time to announce MR. and MISS FRESHER. The Director Ms. Kirthi Manghnani honored the winners. The program concluded with the host delivering the vote of thanks to the New Horizonite family. The event ended with some beats and dances. Our in-house DJ gave his final touch to the show by belting-out rock music. The campus was echoing with ecstatic noise, whistles and applause. It was a memorable day of networking, interacting with each other and fostering new bonds.
